

About Me

I am a self-taught and highly motivated Web Developer, Graphic Designer, Video Editor, AI Enthusiast, and Stock Market Trader with hands-on experience in multiple digital fields. Over the years, I have successfully built and grown social media accounts, managed digital ads, and worked on custom web development projects.

Being a physically challenged (disabled) individual, I have independently mastered various skills despite financial and social challenges. My journey in digital fields is driven by passion, self-learning, and a problem-solving mindset. I believe in continuous learning and improving my skills through practical work and real-world applications.
